LIFE CHANGING EXPERIENCE

The unknown world of Africa.

When I first came in Africa, I had to let go of whatever preconceived biases I could have had. The vast expanse of vegetation in front of me was serene, vivid, almost unreal, and dreamlike. It simply is beautiful. It's amazing how for a moment I thought I was on a different planet from the earth and that a miracle was happening all around me. The earth's aroma, brightness, sights, and sounds, which I could perceive with all my senses, greatly touched my heart. All I need now is more, more of Africa.

This is what I refer to as «experienced luxury».

Untouched nature and the epitome of safari excellence

The ultimate wildlife experience.

Vast landscapes unfold, from arid desert regions to the world's largest inland delta and the largest salt lake. Approximately 20% of the country is designated as wildlife conservation areas, allowing you to witness untouched nature and wildlife.

The UNESCO-listed “Okavango Delta” is the world’s largest inland delta. It is a lush floodplain, a blessing from the rains on the Angolan Plateau. Surrounded by deserts, this rich wetland is truly an oasis, teeming with vibrant and diverse flora and fauna.

The northern Chobe National Park is renowned for its numerous elephant populations, and it is also famous for the lush floodplains of the “Okavango Delta.” Witness the spectacle of animals coming for water, and immerse yourself in the grandeur of the natural world. The sight of elephant herds foraging and the whimsical appearances of crocodiles and hippos, frequenting the water’s surface, are both adorable and comical.

Navigate the winding water channels surrounded by greenery aboard a small wooden boat, enjoy birdwatching, and witness the proliferation of papyrus.

Africa's radiant jewel

The paradise of animals shaped by the Great Rift Valley

Dry deserts, fertile plateaus, snow-capped mountains, endless savannas, and diverse cultures – Kenya boasts a rich variety of attractions.

The Great Rift Valley runs through the heart of Kenya, creating valley-like landscapes where a plethora of animals gather. This sight resembles a wild paradise. Lake Nakuru, overflowing with pink flamingos. The Maasai Mara, where large migrations of wildebeests and zebras can be witnessed. Giraffes, buffaloes, elephants, lions, leopards, and rhinos also inhabit this diverse land.

Amboseli National Park, famous for its elephant habitat, houses around 1,500 elephants. During the dry season, herds migrate to the central Enkongo Narok swamps. The backdrop of Mount Kilimanjaro makes it a favorite among photography enthusiasts. At the park's edge, Maasai people reside, tending to their cattle daily.

In the savanna that spreads forever.

An island of beautiful nature, dance, and history

A Caribbean island nation with dance, history, and enchantment

Havana, the capital, blends historic structures filled with Caribbean colors and rhythms, alongside modern art. Beautiful Malecón Street welcomes visitors with sea breezes. Cuba's music and dance, including diverse genres like salsa and rumba, resonate in street corners and nightclubs. Surrender to the rhythmic music echoing throughout the city, and immerse yourself in Cuba's unique energy.

The ancient city of Trinidad is a beautiful town where the magic of the Caribbean is especially palpable. Its historic buildings and cobblestone streets create an atmosphere that feels like a journey back in time. The natural beauty of Cuba, including the Los Ingenios Valley, is also an unmissable charm.

A must-see in Cuba is the stunningly clear sea, often hailed as the “Pearl of the Caribbean.” Enjoy breathtaking views at Varadero Beach, believed to be loved by the literary giant Hemingway, and the lesser-known gem, Santa Maria Beach.

Day
1-2

Arrival / Havana city tour

The next day, we'll take a walk through the historic Old Town. Enjoy the colonial charm at Plaza de Armas and Cathedral Square, and explore Obispo Street. We'll visit the famous bar "Floridita," a favorite of Hemingway's. After lunch, hop into a classic convertible for a drive around iconic sites, including Revolution Square with Che Guevara's portrait, the refreshing greenery of Havana's Forest, and the scenic Malecon waterfront.

World Heritage Site: Viñales Valley

The next destination is Pinar del Rio, home to the Viñales Valley. After exploring the valley, we'll visit a local farmhouse, where you can enjoy traditional Cuban cuisine made with organic vegetables at a restaurant run by locals. After lunch, we'll visit a tobacco farm to learn about the cultivation, drying, and rolling processes of cigars. Later, we'll head back to Havana. If you're interested, you can also experience Cuban music live, dance shows, or even salsa lessons.

Sightseeing in Santa Clara / Trinidad

In Santa Clara, we will visit the mausoleum of Commander Guevara. In 1987, to commemorate the 20th anniversary of his death, a statue of Guevara and 38 stones representing the 38 fallen in battle were placed here in Santa Clara. The following day, we will explore the UNESCO World Heritage Site of the Los Ingenios Valley. The 45-meter-high watchtower, known as the "Iznaga Tower," was built by plantation owner Alejo Iznaga to oversee the slaves, providing a panoramic view of the plantation. In the afternoon, we'll tour the town of Trinidad.

Beach Resorts Varadero/Havana - Departure

After exploring Cienfuegos' UNESCO World Heritage Site, we'll head to Varadero, a popular Cuban beach resort. It stretches about 20 km along the Caribbean Sea with over 50 hotels. Enjoy activities like snorkeling and diving or relax on the beautiful beaches. The next day, we'll travel to Havana. The last day is free for activities such as souvenir shopping or exploring the old city. It's time to return home.

An island at the end of South America, the beginning of Antarctica

A polar frontier where the miracle of nature unfolds

The archipelago, known as the Falkland Islands to the British and Malvinas to the Argentinians, is situated at the southernmost tip of South America. Despite being in South America, it serves as a stronghold of British culture and traditions. Recognized for its beautiful landscapes and diverse wildlife, it promises visitors an overwhelming natural experience.

Stanley, with its charming harbor and colorful residences, welcomes visitors with a small town's warm atmosphere. Historic buildings and museums showcase the region's history and culture.

The Falklands are renowned for hosting numerous seabirds and penguins. Observe Gentoo, Rockhopper, and Magellanic penguins in their natural habitats, surrounded by stunning landscapes along the Falklands' coastline.

Exploring the island's nature reserves and trekking trails reveals astonishingly beautiful landscapes, allowing you to immerse yourself in the polar wilderness alongside unique flora and fauna. The crisp air and clear waters, influenced by cold ocean currents, provide a pleasantly refreshing experience for visitors.

The ultimate travel destination, the last continent

The dynamic nature of the extreme world on display

Antarctica is essentially the only continent not claimed by any nation, historically unoccupied by humans. While research stations host approximately 1,000 to 5,000 researchers, the harsh environment supports only a minimal number of life forms adapted to the frigid polar conditions.

This ice-covered continent tantalizes adventurous spirits with its beauty and harshness. Antarctica unfolds breathtaking landscapes of glaciers, icebergs, and icy wonders, overwhelming visitors with awe and marvel.

The animals inhabiting Antarctica, including penguins, seals, and whales, adapt to the frigid environment, offering visitors a source of inspiration and excitement through their behaviors and ecology.

Aiming for Antarctica

Depending on conditions, you may have the opportunity to visit the Argentine scientific station, Orcadas Base, on Laurie Island in the South Orkney Islands. Enjoy the vast scenery of surrounding glaciers. With the high possibility of witnessing massive icebergs and humpback whales, there won't be a dull moment on this voyage.

Day

The brave Antarctica

Sailing towards the Weddell Sea, massive tabular icebergs announce the arrival on the eastern side of the Antarctic Peninsula. A visit to Paulet Island, home to a large colony of Adélie penguins, is possible. Additionally, navigating through the ice-locked Antarctic Sound to Brown Bluff may offer a chance to set foot on the continent itself. This extended voyage provides opportunities to sail farther along the icy shores of the western Antarctic Peninsula. With several landing opportunities on the Antarctic continent, you'll be surrounded by the majestic scenery of towering peaks and colossal glaciers sinking into the sea.

Community

Fostering community coexistence and local empowerment

Improved cultural understanding

Sustainable travel fosters genuine connections with local cultures. Immerse yourself in customs and traditions to enrich your own experience while actively contributing to the preservation of these unique cultures.

Revitalization of the local economy

Sustainable travel ensures that the money spent by tourists is reinvested in local communities. This leads to job creation, improvement of local infrastructure, and promotion of local crafts and industries, bringing vitality to the entire region.

Children

Improving children's learning environment

The Power of Education

Supporting the local education environment not only provides knowledge and opportunities for the next generation but also contributes to the overall development of the community.

Our Role

Our travel business is more than just tourism. We strive to have a positive impact on the communities we visit.

Our Approach

- Local collaboration with schools and educational institutions
- Donation of educational materials and support for local schools
- Organizing events for interaction between travelers and the local community
